Many tobacco growers are marketing tobacco this week. Right much has been followed for next year's crop. From the sale of the good piles to be seen at almost every house, with the well-filled granaries, and the fat hogs that bring but a few dollars, and cured for next year's supply of bacon, there seems to have been a side by side provision for the coming rainy (or snowy) days.

Life, one sees much evidence of an abundant supply of hay and fodder wherever one goes in this and adjoining counties. There is seen every community. On a recent visit to an adjoining county, my host informed me of a pathetic case that came under his personal observation.

This man, an employee of the city of Appomattox, was a recent visitor to Appomattox. He was a man of about 40 years of age, and was suffering from a severe case of rheumatism. He was unable to work, and was living in a small, one-roomed house.

THE TIMES VIRGINIAN, APPOMATTOX, VIRGINIA

was so intense, she had to be taken to a dentist twice before obtaining relief. She is resting easier as this is being written.

It was the writer's recent privilege to visit in a home in which the lady of the house has been an invalid and a shut-in, not only confined to her house, but for perhaps a decade she has spent all her days in a wheel chair, and her, at times suffered intense pain. Yet, she has borne her suffering with a beautiful Christian fortitude that is indeed an inspiration for those whose privilege it is to know her. Miss ... lives in a large, well-kept house, one of the few remaining early American houses.

I also visited, in another home in which there is a shut-in, also confined to his "buggy" wheel-chair, a jolly old soul of four score years. His wife, who seemed to be slightly younger, was in an adjoining room quilting a large comforter. These two jolly old people live quite alone and being well supplied with this world's goods, they have no lack.

In a recent interview with the Joyous Christmas Was Frowned on By Early Settlers

The joy and singing now associated with Christmas was once forbidden by ultra-pious churches of the Puritan. Even the recent fine weather, the joy founded New England carried the same repression for many generations of folk.

In the middle ages Christmas became the greatest of festivals, celebrated with feasts, merriment and general jollity. Many of our rollicking carols date back to this gay period of yuletide.

Such pomp and merriment marked the Christmas of Shakespeare's England, when a 12-day festive period was observed. Work was abandoned and young and old gave themselves over to merry-making.

The Puritans frowned upon the pleasures of the season, however, and in 1644 Parliament prohibited festivities and ordered the day kept as a fast.

Salvation Lassies Retain Yule Spirit Of Founder Booth

Christmas will be happier for thousands of people this year because Catherine and William Booth carried the torch of evangelism from their New Connexion church in England in 1861 and started the Salvation Army. Today the torch is being carried by the second generation of the founder, Gen. Evangeline Booth.

So familiar at Christmas time, the Salvation Army's group singing on street corners and "boiling kettles" for which contributions are solicited, had their beginning in the youthful reformer from their New Connexion church in England in 1861 and started the Salvation Army. Today the torch is being carried by the second generation of the founder, Gen. Evangeline Booth.

He also lived to see the Salvation Army become better established in the United States than in England, to see it acquire banks, insurance companies, factories, public houses, farms, hospitals and cadet schools, all the outgrowth of the "expeditionary" force of seven lassies sent here in 1880 under George Scott Russell.

Hitler's Toys Outsold By Chamberlain Dolls

Neville Chamberlain-with-an-umbrella, the "appeasement" prime minister who claims to have kept Europe out of war last year, has become a popular toy with British youngsters.

German toy-makers, whose prices are dropping, are crying. The Reich's doll manufacturers claim their exports to London have collapsed because Mr. Chamberlain-with-an-umbrella is the No. 1 favorite toy on the British isles.

Many other "men of destiny" have been out-dolled this year.

Roosevelt may delay until spring announcement of decision on third term issue.
